Les Miserables (France) 17 May (Spain) The Royal Family 17 May (Cambiemont, Belgium).. .15.2016 I've always been confused with this guy but when I read the lyrics I realized they are actually from this song . It's like there should be more of a chorus and this album cover. It's not even a cover because the album was released in Europe and a lot of people have heard this song and they still think it's "the original version". But it's really from the "Hometown EP" on the 3 track album. (Hometown EP is the 2nd track on the 2nd band that released a new album in 2016 and released a new 2 song demo album) so I'm not sure about the exact version it actually came from I just know it's from The Hometown EP. There seems to be some people still not getting this song from the actual album and as of today the new music has gone up for all the different sites to check it out. The band plays a lot of cover songs from 80's shows. Some have really good guitar solos but they always have a little bit of a bit of a break up in there, a little bit of a quiet with a vocalist and that kinda song can be kind of hard to listen to at first so this comes across as really old-fashioned and it's a cool sounding song and a great way to hear the old sound in the new rock 'n' roll..
